

Perc tests pending for public housing

by Arlene Surprenant
"If you go down three feet and you're not in water, you're not in Wilmington."

This comment by Dan Gillis at Monday night's housing authority (WHA) meeting was made in reference to the upcoming percolation tests on the new low to moderate income housing sites.

According to Executive Director Lillian Buckley, both the plans for the Chapter 667 elderly housing and Chapter 705 homes are "coming along."

Deep pit tests (the high water table test for the height of the septic system) are expected to be done April 12 for the elderly site and no later than May 15 for the 11 low to moderate sites approved at last fall's special town meeting. The percolation tests will be done immediately afterward.

Architects for both projects have been looking into several options to get the most for the money invested.

Tully and Ingersoll's Jerry Ingersoll, project architect for the proposed elderly units, is considered "one of the foremost experts in the energy field," said Buckley. Because of this fact, they have applied for a grant to install passive solar features in the new housing to cut back on heating costs.

The firm of Castro-Blanco Piscioneri and Feder, along with WHA members, is looking into the possibility of using the less expensive modular or pre-constructed homes for the Chapter 705 housing. This would be the first time that type of home would be used for such a project in the state.

Gillis brought a new program - the Self Help home building program - to the board's attention. He told his fellow members that he had contacted Connie Kruger, director of the program, to ask how the program worked.

Basically, the program provides technical assistance to 30 families a year in the construction of their homes. Participants work in small family groups and cooperatively build all the homes for the group under the direction of a licensed construction field supervisor. To qualify, families must earn no more than $18,000 a year and meet all Farmers Home Administration's (FmHA) requirements.

One attractive aspect is that participants receive FmHA mortgages with no down payment and a variable interest rate from 11.75 percent to as low as one percent. The average cost of a three bedroom house, with land, is $45,000 through this program.

This is acquiring a home "in the old-fashioned way - the way I built my first house," Gillis said. He felt it would be a viable option for young couples just starting out and if anyone was interested in further information, they can contact him.

And lastly, Gillis told WHA members he received a call from Alice Papaliolios offering her 17 room home across from town hall (which she is in the process of selling) for use as the home for autistic children under consideration in Wilmington.

Gillis suggested members talk to abutters "before we even think about going ahead with this." If they met any objections, they should drop the idea.

Auto manufacturers are noted for making claims about their products. This four wheel drive Subaru must have heard some of those claims. According to witnesses the lady driving the car backed into, pushed and drove over this granite block in the Bayank parking lot in Wilmington Tuesday morning. Granite weighs about 172 pounds per cubic foot. The block is about 15" wide by 15" thick by 5 feet long.

One often hears the expression, "My car just died!" As the driver of this hearse was passing the Bayank in Wilmington on his way to the gas station Tuesday morning it stalled. The driver had to push it to the side of the road to avoid getting buried in traffic.

Warrant articles add dollars to budget

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington voters may have a tough time staying within the $16,310,524 budget levy limit at town meeting, judging from extra money requests brought up as warrant articles at the finance committee's public hearing Tuesday night.

According to Fincom Chairman Dennis Volpe, anything not included in Article 5 or the recommended budget will override Proposition 2. If these requests are passed, voters will have to reconsider the budget to find the money or call a special town meeting.

One of the largest money articles under consideration at the three hour meeting was Article 26 to fund the library's tie-in to the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium. Approximately $80,000 will be required the first year to cover the hook-up and capital equipment costs.

Reference librarian Tina Stewart spoke in favor of the article along with other library personnel. She felt "resource sharing," which would be the outcome of such a computer network, "is the way to go." As a single library, she said, Wilmington can't obtain federal funds.

But the town could take advantage of a recent federal grant awarded to the consortium in Andover.

Our main concern, she said, is that this plan "keeps getting put off" and "Wilmington residents are losing out because of it. Rather than wait until next year, as suggested by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, she felt joining the consortium was a priority now.

Volpe explained that since March, 1983, the town manager has used a five year capital im-

Cable TV hearing Monday night

A public hearing is scheduled Monday night, April 8, at eight o'clock at the Wilmington Town Hall concerning Greater Boston Cable Company's renewal license.

The Cable TV advisory committee is urging all citizens with complaints, concerns and questions about the cable tv service and proposed renewal changes to attend.

The advisory board has been reviewing Greater Boston's current renewal proposal, and comparing it with other cities and towns in the state. The board has met once with representatives from Greater Boston Cable discussing many points in the proposal.

Some highlights of the current proposal (which is still negotiable... it is possible to open up bidding from other companies) are:

Basic service will be $9.95 per month containing 15 local broadcast channels, local channel 6, C-span and three local access channels required by new federal laws.

The second tier available at an additional $3.55 includes CNN, USA, MTV, ESPN, PTL, WOR-TV, WPIX-TV.

New channels in this group will be Arts and Entertainment, Nashville, Lifetime, CNN-2, Nickelodeon, Weather channel, VH-1.

A new premium channel will be Disney.

The system will have a potential of 58 channels and four reverse channels (back to the system).

Cable-ready TV's will not work with the new mandatory "box" and full use of a "vcr" will require an additional hookup and box at $5.95 per month. Some video equipment will be made available to the town for a studio.

Members of the advisory board feel the current proposal is not competitive with "state of the art" systems, in capacity, programming, cost and local services.

The board has prepared a questionnaire about cable TV service and programming. It will be available at next week's public hearing, as well as the annual town meeting April 27.

Cable TV is future technology happening now. The advisory board again urges concerned residents to be at the public hearing and - or fillout the questionnaire at the town meeting.

Business communication

English classes at the West Intermediate School learned Tuesday how to best utilize their communication skills in the business world.

Jim Palman of Avco gave a talk on communicating in business to Mike Veves' English class. Students then participated in a novel career game. They were given actual work usually undertaken by professionals in various departments, such as the manufacturing, personnel, and purchasing departments. They then had to communicate with each other in seeking solutions to problems posed through their work experience.

The program was filmed for use in other English classes.

According to Career Developer Sandy Roberts, who was responsible for bringing this unique learning approach to the West, "communication is the most important skill you can have." Students, she added, need to know that what they're learning in school today will be of use to them in the work force after graduation.

"Album of the Year Honors." The Nations are a full time, interdenominational ministry, travelling extensively in Canada and the United States. Grop members include Dan Tomen, Jr., tenor; James Tomen, lead and piano; Ron Holmes, baritone; Ron Spearman, bass; Shawn Wright, drums; and Mark Gauvreau, bass guitar.

In concert their objective is plain and clear, sing and preach God's Word, lifting up the Lord Jesus Christ. The results are powerful and exciting for the glory of God.

The public will be most welcome.

Fincom pleased with redevelopment project

by Arlene Surprenant
The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) is continuing its effort to obtain the approval of all town boards for its latest proposed project, the upgrading of Wilmington Center and all main arteries leading to and from it.

"We want you to know our intentions right up front so we have your unanimous support," Redevelopment Authority Treasurer Vaughn Surprenant told members of the finance committee at a meeting last week.

The project, he said, would accomplish the improvement and beautification of Wilmington Town Center as well as "all main arteries from border to border" (Woburn and Reading lines to the Tewksbury town line).

"We've done our homework," stressed Surprenant.

WRA members have explained their plans to and gained support from EOOD officials, investigated ways of setting up CARD and Historical Preservation districts, and explored several funding sources including Revenue Bond financing, transportation and improvement loans, rehabilitation funds, and business development loans, Surprenant said.

All that is now needed to get the project underway is the support of local boards and voter approval on April 27 of an article to extend the WRA's jurisdiction.

The WRA completed its work at Jewell Industrial Park last year but has a charter effective until the year 2013. WRA members now hope to undertake this new improvement project to "greatly benefit Wilmington," Surprenant said.

Finance committee members responded enthusiastically to the plan.

"I don't know of one person against this," said one fincom member.

Even the business community - which will be most directly affected by it - looks on it with favor, said Nicki Johnson, WRA member and past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Surprenant explained that, at present, many local residents shop in nearby towns. With a determined effort to make the town center more visually appealing, he said, it would stir up town pride and make people more willing to shop locally. He and Johnson anticipate that Chamber of Commerce members will form a sub-committee to give input, once plans are underway.

If their article passes at town meeting, the first thing the WRA hopes to do is expedite and help oversee a state proposal to create a Route 129 by-pass around Main Street. This plan has been on paper for many years and, when complete, would not only alleviate some heavy traffic flow, but possibly include a rotary and a small recreational area in town.

"This 129 By-Pass plan is going to happen whether we get involved or not," Surprenant told fincom members. "At least, this way the town has input." Also, the Redevelopment Authority could help relocate any businesses affected by land takings and seek out funding sources for them, he said.

At the same time, the Authority would turn its attention to town center and address such issues as marketing, parking space problems, correcting violations of town ordinances such as sign placement illegalities along Main Street and upgrading buildings to conform to certain standards. This last would be done with the cooperation of local businessmen who would be offered low interest loans for the necessary changes to their property. It would also require help from the Planning Board and other groups in town.

Fincom members seemed impressed.

"You have a good track record," stated Bill Hanlon.

Fincom Chairman Dennis Volpe was concerned about the "horrendous traffic problems" in Wilmington. If the WRA can address and help resolve some of these problems, he was for the plan, he said.

Surprenant assured him they could do this through the creation of the Route 129 By-pass. Then, Volpe added, maybe the Authority could be the "catalyst" to finally bring the by-pass plan to fruition.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski was particularly pleased to hear the plans wouldn't cost Wilmington "one cent."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Stapczynski told Surprenant. He said he wished more people would realize the town doesn't have "bottomless pockets."

Surprenant pointed out that when WRA Chairman Jay Donovan took the plan before EOOD officials, they told him, "you're the first board to come to us with a wallet full of money."

MYF Pancake Breakfast

The Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will prepare Easter morning breakfast, and any proceeds will be used to support their mission outreach program. The pancake breakfast will be served from 7 to 8:45 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Wilmington United Methodist Church, 87 Church St. (Route 62). Chamber study group

Jeffrey Bernstein, Esq., of the firm of Bernstein & Smick made a report to the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Electric Power Committee, December 18, 1984, the results of which have not been revealed. Bernstein is on the left in this photo. In the center is Maura May a technical assistant to Bernstein. At right is Paul L. Chermick, a member of the firm of Analysis and Inferences, who also made a report to the committee.

Reading Light dispute explained

In January 1983 the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) caused an increase in electric light rates to be put into effect. There had been a notice, which some felt was ineffective because it appeared at about the time the increase took effect.

For some of the Wilmington companies the increased costs were noticable. Some felt the cost of power had increased about 25 percent. They asked the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce to investigate.

In May 1983 the Chamber held a breakfast meeting in which electric power costs were discussed. Among those present was then State Representative Mike Barrett of Reading. The companies which were present agreed that the next step would be to make a survey of the electric power rates charged by the RMLD.

The survey was made. Both Wilmington residents and Wilmington companies seemed to be facing an escalating power cost situation. There was, however, no conclusive evidence to be derived, because some figures given were estimates.

In August 1983 the town manager of Wilmington, two selectmen, and representatives of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce went to a meeting of the Light Commissioners of the RMLD. There are three commissioners, all elected by the voters of Reading.

No other town has any control, formal or informal, of the RMLD. All decisions regarding planning, rate structures, investments, etc. are made by the commissioners.

During the past 25 years or so the RMLD has been paying funds to the three towns it serves, in lieu of taxes. The towns are the center of Lynnfield, North Reading and Wilmington. Those payments were stopped in December 1984.

The reasoning behind the visit of the town and Chamber officials was one of seeking to discuss problems and perhaps establish better communication. Nothing public was said about the visit at the time it occurred.

After this Rep. Barrett, who had been watching events, suggested to the Chamber that it could join the Coalition for Municipal Ratepayers' Rates (CMRR). The coalition had a petition to the State Department of Public Utilities (DPU).

That petition asked that the DPU intervene in MMWEC's request for authority for additional bonding of the Seabrook nuclear power plant in New Hampshire, under construction.

MMWEC is the acronym for Mass. Municipal Wholesale Electric Company. That organization is made up of the local municipal light departments in Massachusetts. MMWEC has been purchasing Seabrook bonds to assist in the construction of the nuclear power plants, in order to assure future supplies of electric power.

In each instance, except Reading, the local municipal light company serves just its own community. Reading, by special act of the legislature, serves three other communities.

Wilmington uses more than 60 percent of the power of the RMLD. North Reading and Lynnfield Center are served with about 20 percent, and Reading is served with the remaining 20 percent.

Reading is the largest power user in MMWEC, because of the heavy power needs of Wilmington.

On the other hand Reading is not the largest purchaser of Seabrook bonds, in MMWEC. Ayer, Hull and Peabody to name other communities, are heavier purchasers.

The Coalition, CMRR, has in its membership several state legislators including Barrett and Rep. Jim Miceli. There are several commissioners of the municipal light departments. There are business people and private citizens.

After the Wilmington Chamber joined CMRR the impact of Seabrook on the future costs of power in Massachusetts appeared to be in sharper focus. It seemed that the costs for power would escalate. More information was needed, the Chamber's Electric Power Study Committee decided.

The Boston firm of Bernstein & Smick was engaged to make a study. That firm specializes in energy and utility laws. The chamber had become aware of the firm because of its work for CMRR.

Bernstein & Smick were engaged to make a study of Wilmington's position. They already had a lot of information about the Seabrook nuclear projects.

They furnished such information, and information on MMWEC, to the Chamber's Electric Power Study Committee. A detailed report was presented to the Chamber of Commerce Electric Study Committee December 18, 1984.

The report was not made public, but the result was that the Chamber made plans to petition the DPU to investigate the rates and practices of the RMLD, as they affect the three other communities being served, Lynnfield Center, North Reading and Wilmington.

At about the same time the town of Wilmington received information that there would be no more payments by the RMLD in lieu of taxes.

The Wilmington selectmen, through the town manager, arranged to be hosts at a joint meeting, to meet with Attorney Bernstein. North Reading, Reading and Lynnfield selectmen were invited. Also invited were the commissioners of the RMLD.

North Reading and Lynnfield selectmen were in attendance, that night, as the conversation with Attorney Bernstein was held. No Reading officials attended.

There has been but little change since that night, except that a couple of weeks ago the North Reading selectmen seemed to be "hedging" in their position, as reported in this paper.

The Chamber, in February, again made an effort to talk with the commissioners of the RMLD, according to report. A letter was written to the commissioners, suggesting that a conversation could be held, which could be conducive to a better exchange of information. There was no reply, this paper has been told.

As a result, since February, the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has been preparing a petition to the DPU, about the manner in which the RMLD is operated. As of this week the petition had not been submitted.

The Lynnfield and Wilmington selectmen have voted to be co-petitioners. The Wilmington board has an article in the warrant for the annual town meeting, asking for an appropriation of $15,000, to study the feasibility of finding alternative sources of electrical power.

Massachusetts Energy Secretary Sharon Pollard has offered her assistance. She told the Electric Study Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, in a recent meeting in her office that she could make a technical staff available to Wilmington, to assure reliable power in the coming years.

Current Tewksbury rubbish contractor submits lowest bid

The V. Canalas Company of Tewksbury has submitted the low bid for the Tewksbury rubbish removal contract to the Tewksbury Board of Health. The board discussed the rubbish contract bids at a meeting on April 1.

It is really no surprise that Canalas is the low bidder. The locally based firm has for years always managed to bid lower than its opponents.

Canalas bid $334,750. Other bidders were BFI, Boston, $497,163; Allied Cartage, Woburn, $369,000; Vining Disposal, Medford, $426,500; and GSX, Danvers, $385,400.

The contract this year will cover only the pick up and transportation of the town's trash. Disposal of the trash will be covered differently than it has in the past.

In prior years, the trash hauler would charge the town for the amount he was charged to dispose of the trash at a landfill.

This year, sometime after mid-summer, Tewksbury will be disposing of its rubbish in the new Northeast Solid Waste Committee NEWSC trash to energy plant in North Andover. That, not the Canalas bid, was the big item of conversation for the board of health meeting.

There will be a "tipping fee", or processing fee, the town will have to pay each time a truck load of trash enters the NESWC plant. That fee could be $27 a ton, or $29, or as much as $31. Health Officer Bill McMenimen recommended that the board use the figure of $29 a ton for its conversations with the finance committee.

Health Board member Joan Dunlevy, RN, felt the $31 figure should be used. She had been visiting in the area, and had been talking with people.

Ed Flanagan, the NESWC coordinator for Tewksbury, was also at the meeting. Ed had been talking with Artie Auto, of NESWC. Ed's figures ranged from $27 a ton to $31 a ton.

Based on a tonnage of 11,000 tons a year, the health officer felt that the cost to dispose of trash would be the cost of the rubbish pickup contract plus $319,000 in tipping fees, based on the $29 a ton rate. The health board felt that $31 would be the safest bet, and said so.

The health board will be discussing the figures Wednesday evening with the finance committee.

But there was some good news. Flanagan told the board that the NESWC plant is, at this time, undergoing a shakedown, before the incinerating process becomes a full time operation. There is no "tipping charge" at NESWC at this time. Maybe for a while, Tewksbury will not have to pay a "tipping fee."

It was Flanagan's opinion that the shakedown could last for a couple of months. He felt the incinerator would be in full operation by September 1, and it would not surprise him to see it in full operation by July 1.

Tewksbury appeals board to hear 25 cases

"As busy as a clam at high tide."

That is the way to describe the members of the Tewksbury Board of Appeals, during the spring of 1985. It seems that each night that the board holds public hearings on requests for variances from the zoning bylaws, there are more than the last time.

Tewksbury land owners seek to subdivide their household lots of land, or to otherwise create houselots where there were never any before. That is a part of the problem, a big part. A lot of parcels were created before zoning bylaws were made and when people go to use those lots today, there tend to be legal problems that an appearance before the board of appeals can rectify.

In addition there are other zoning problems, industrial sites that may possibly be able to be used, questions involving the sites of homes built 50 or 60 years ago, and many others.

A few weeks past the Tewksbury Board of Appeals heard a total of 17 appeals, on one evening. The board had thought of dividing the hearings into two nights, but that's not the way it is done. All 17 were heard in one evening.

April 22 that record will be broken. The Board of Appeals, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall, will hear a total of 25 cases. It will be a new record for Tewksbury, and will mean over two hours of just listening to legal (and other) arguments.

Dear Larz:

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) views older people as an asset, not a liability. Our senior citizens have accumulated so much talent and learned so much over their years of living that it would be a shame not to put their abilities to use.

Since 1973 the Greater Lowell Retired Senior Volunteers have used their knowledge and talents to benefit their communities. Currently some 400 RSVP volunteers are addressing a variety of needs through their volunteer services, contributing in the last fiscal year some 68 volunteer services and contributing some 68,000 volunteer hours in the Merrimack Valley area. Contributing to the 68,000 hours were RSVP volunteers (9,636) to their community.

You will find RSVP volunteers serving in many local non-profit sites in Tewksbury — North East Police Institute, Patten Library, Red Cross, Hedstrom House, Saunders Circle and Carnation Drive — as meal site workers and friendly visitors to the home bound elderly. The Retired Senior Volunteer Program is also active in Lowell, Billerica, Chelmsford, Dracut, and Tyngsboro.

Men and women wishing to become RSVP volunteers must be 60 or older and retired. There are no income or education requirements and volunteers choose assignments from a broad list of possibilities compiled by the local RSVP office at 167 Dutton St., Lowell, Mass. Please call Thelma Brown, director, or Dolly Sughrue at 459-0551 ext. 110. The benefits of volunteering works both ways. The needed services it could otherwise not afford, and the volunteer feels useful, productive and needing.

Very often the Director, Thelma Brown, has been told by the RSVP volunteers that when they retired there was a great void. Now they have seen that giving of yourself as a volunteer is a way to gain life. The volunteer gains by giving.

"Congratulations to the Wilmington Community Schools on the Women's Club 'Concern for Youth' award."

This organization has served our community well, in a very meaningful way. Their recent child/parent oriented programs are of special significance in the fight for a Drug Free Youth.

Building self-esteem in children is vital. This type of Parent Effectiveness Courses help the parent to cope and the child to grow up with a healthy outlook on life.

For our country, and the community of Wilmington, to achieve a Drug Free Youth, we need parents to parent. There are many parents today who do not want to be inconvenienced by their children's needs.

The Chemical People Task Force appreciates the honorable mention by the Women's Club and will continue our public awareness campaign regarding School Age Drug and Alcohol Abuse.

Let's all "Stick our necks out for kids" in 1985 and show our children we care.

Lunch at Honeywell
The guests were hearing Director John Golden tell of Honeywell's plans when this photo was taken last Thursday. Trudy Hayes (left) announced a $500 scholarship will be given to a Wilmington student in June. Beside her is high school principal Paul Fleming, across the table is Kirk Hazelett, information specialist.

Honeywell is 100 years old

Honeywell Companies across the country are celebrating the 100th anniversary of the birth of the science of automatic control. In Wilmington, the event was heralded by a luncheon and the announcement of a $500 scholarship for a Wilmington High School graduate.

One hundred years ago, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Albert Butz, Swiss born, started a business of manufacturing a "damper flapper" which he had invented. It was an automatic heat regulator, run by a spring motor, with wires and chains to the dampers of a coal fired furnace. It was intended to maintain an even temperature in the home, without having the tedious chore of opening and closing dampers by hand.

His invention was the first application of the principal of "feedback." On this is based the science of automatic control, and from this came an industry which would transform the world.

The Electro-Optical Division of Honeywell, based on Fordham Road in Wilmington is observing the 100th anniversary, along with other parts of Honeywell, throughout the nation. In each community the local firm has resolved to become an integral part of the locality.

Wilmington officials and others, including the executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, and the publisher of the Town Crier were guests at a luncheon, Thursday, March 28. Among the officials were three selectmen, the principal assessor and high school principal Paul Fleming.

After lunch there were oral and visual demonstrations of the sciences used today by Honeywell, and of the Electro-Optical Technology which is produced, in part, in the Wilmington plant. There was a description of the newer models of control systems, started in the early days of World War II on the B17 bomber, and through the history of the solar flights, up to the first landing of the Flight Shuttle - a landing that had to be made "without practice" and which was described as a "thrilling experience" by the site manager, John Golden.

The growth rate of Honeywell, the visitors were told, is doubling every four years, and a lot of things are going to happen in the next 20 years. The Honeywell company had an income of $1 billion in 1967, and the income is at this time $6 billion a year.

Honeywell is trying, "definitely," to become a participant in the community, and to encourage participation in community events, Golden told the guests.

The last phase of the luncheon was an announcement by Trudy Hanes, of Honeywell. Honeywell is providing a $500 scholarship for a Wilmington High School graduate, to help further the graduate's education.

Jazz-Rock Ensemble to perform April 11

The Wilmington High School Jazz - Rock Ensemble will present its second annual "Evening at the Pops" concert Thursday, April 11, in the West Intermediate School's cafeteria. Tickets for this very popular informal music event are on sale from band members in advance, and at the door ($2.00 for adults; $1.00 for children under 12). The audience will be seated at tables and light refreshments will be available throughout the evening. The Jazz - Rock Ensemble, directed by Miss Barbara Mette, will entertain with a variety of popular and standard selections including Theme from "Terms of Endearment," "You Should Hear How She Talks About You," Pink Panther, and Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy.

Special guest appearances by the H.S. Jazz Vocal Ensemble and the debut of the Junior High Jazz Band will round off a festive spring evening of entertainment.

A high school art exhibit will also showcase student talent.

Wilmington is one of a few communities in Massachusetts which has adopted an "official map," a legal means of erasing old street plans. Lately there have been many Official Map hearings before the Board of Appeals, with developers seeking to make old plans valid.

Such was the case on March 26, when residents of Mozart Avenue attended a Board of Appeals hearing for a street near them. John Vetrano (center) of Mozart Avenue as one of the neighbors who attended, and protested the map showed cellars to be possible, 40 feet apart.

Chairman Bruce MacDonald explained that the hearing had nothing to do with cellars, but was only an "official map" hearing.

Helen Bailey becomes bride of Gordon Fitch

Helen Frances Bailey, daughter of Warren and Carole Bailey of Frederick Drive, Wilmington became the bride of Gordon David Fitch, son of Gordon and Pauline Fitch of Woburn Street on October 7.

The altar of St. Thomas Church, before which Father Thomas Reynolds performed the late afternoon nuptials, was adorned with pink and white carnations and glowing candles, while organ renditions of the Wedding March, Ave Maria and the Wedding Song enhanced the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a chapel length ivory satin gown trimmed with alencon lace and featuring bishop sleeves, queen ann neckline. Her chapel length ivory veil with blusher fell from a matching headpiece of satin flowers and alencon lace. She carried a full bouquet of white roses, orchids, gardenias and satin streamers.

Kathleen Bailey, sister of the bride acted as maid of honor and the bridesmaid included Janelle Fitch, sister of the groom and Nancy Phillips, Patricia Thornton and Donna Howell, all close friends of the bride. Each wore a full length dusty rose gown of tinsella featuring long sleeves, and a cross-cross bodice accented with a matching belt. They wore matching v-shaped hats with short veils and carried crescent shaped bouquets of pink orchids and carnations.

Paul Fitch served his brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of John Fitch, brother of the groom and Stephen and Todd Bailey, (who also served as an altar boy) brothers of the bride; Scott Dindo and Robert Bavoat, friends of the couple.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Heritage Hall in Lexington where a three tiered water fountain cake made by Dorothy Brennan and a lovely silk rose centerpiece adorned the head table.

Carolyn Lyons, cousin of the bride circulated the guest book and Rythm Inc. provided music for dancing.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bailey chose a pale pink and grey chiffon cocktail dress.

The mother of the groom was attired in a toast colored crocheted dress with beige accessories.

For traveling the new Mrs. Fitch chose a cream wool suit with taupe accessories.

Following a honeymoon in Aruba, the couple is now living in Reading.

The bride was educated at Wilmington High School and the New England Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing and is currently attending Emmanuel College for a BSN degree. She is employed as a registered nurse at New England Deaconess Hospital.

Her husband, also educated in Wilmington is a graduate of Ferrum Junior College and Boston University. He is employed in general contracting.

League of Women Voters questions

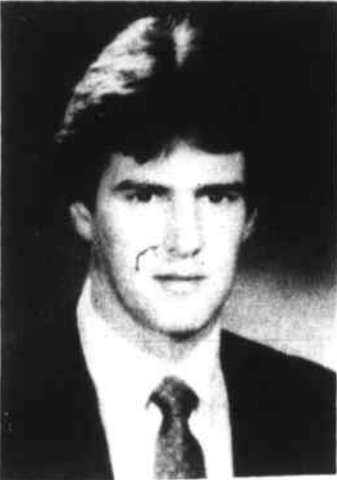

The League of Women Voters of Wilmington will sponsor a local Candidates Night Thursday, April 4 at 7:30 in the Library Conference Room.

The League, while maintaining its rule of non-partisanship, is working to encourage citizens to take an interest in their government by acquainting voters with factual information about all the candidates. In addition to presenting the League's questions to each of the candidates, those attending are invited to pose questions of their own.

The following questions were composed by the Wilmington League and submitted to all the candidates for their response. The candidates were requested to limit their answers to each question to 75 words.

Questions to School Committee Candidates:

- What are the responsibilities of the School Committee? What are your qualifications for the job?
- What qualities will you be looking for in a superintendent of schools?
- There has been much talk at the state level about the "educational reform packages." How will these reforms affect Wilmington, and which, if any of the proposed reforms do you endorse?

Robert Peterson

1. The School Committee is responsible for the enacting and implementation of all school department policies. The committee is additionally responsible for all collective bargaining agreements between each individual union and the Town of Wilmington.

As a former teacher in the Wilmington school system, and as a present committee member, I feel as though I have an understanding of the issues now facing the community. I also feel that my background as a law student has helped me tremendously in the field of contract negotiations. It has also helped me deal with the legal technicalities that very often arise at meetings and must be dealt with immediately.

2. I am looking for a person who is academically qualified and has proven in the past that he/she can be an effective school leader. Even more importantly I am looking for an individual that is looking to make Wilmington their permanent home. I feel as though an individual that has permanent ties to the community is much more effective in dealing with students, parents and other community leaders.

3. Unfortunately, many of the educational reform packages now being discussed on Beacon Hill are the result of some intense lobbying by unions seeking minimum pay standards.

While I wholeheartedly support increased minimum pay for teachers, I feel that the educational package should also contain some sort of competency standards for re-certification of existing teachers. I think we owe it to our teachers to reward them for the valuable work that they do, but I also feel that we have the right to expect that they remain competent in the carrying out of their duties.

Shirley Callan

1. The responsibilities of the School Committee include the setting of school policies, determining the school budget, approving curriculum as well as the hiring of the superintendent and hiring of staff based on the recommendation of the superintendent. In addition, the School Committee is responsible for the housing of students and is the guardian of the rights of students.

For the past two years I have been coordinator of Project Intercede at Wilmington High School, a federally funded grant, geared to keeping students from dropping out of school. I served for several years as an intern in conjunction with the Harvard Graduate School of Education working in both regular and special education under the supervision of a licensed consulting psychologist.

2. The qualities I will be looking for in a superintendent of schools in Wilmington will be to find the person who can best serve the needs of the community and its students. I feel that person should have strong leadership qualities and have the ability to inspire others to follow his or her guidance. Our superintendent should be one who can both lead and one who can take a stand during the time when leadership and guidance "at the helm" is so necessary during the renovation period.

A superintendent should also be a person who is able to communicate well with everyone, school committee members, administrators, faculty, students and parents as well as members of the community. I believe the superintendent should be able to recognize expertise in others and have the ability to incorporate their expertise into his or her own thinking.

3. Insofar as state educational reform packages are concerned I am opposed to increased state control over education which has been part of many of the reform packages currently before the Legislature. I would vehemently oppose any Legislative reform package that is nothing more than a pay raise bill. I think what the Commonwealth has to do first is to fully fund the financial obligations which have already been mandated for education. The Commonwealth should be funding up to capacity to the towns before considering new issues and reforms.

Historically, every time the cities and towns have relinquished controls to the State, it has resulted in increased costs to the taxpayer and inefficient operation - the greatest example being the State's takeover of the Welfare System.

Mitchell Spiris

1. The school committee is a policy-making, not an administrative body. It should be sensitive to the needs of children, parents and the Wilmington community, and must provide support for the staff which administers and operates our schools.

My qualifications are solid and unique: attendance at over 800 school committee meetings in 23 years as a school administrator, training and experience as an educational administrator, leadership in educational and civic associations, and a long-term commitment to educational excellence.

2. Every decision I make will focus on what's best for students. This search will be no exception. The superintendent will be an educator whose leadership sets high standards for faculty and administration, will care about what's happening in our schools, and will be responsive to our community. As chief executive officer of the school committee, the new superintendent will have the personal character and professional experience to direct their decisions and carry out their policies.

3. The state flux of reform packages prevents my endorsement of any one. Several areas interest me: the ramifications of pre-kindergarten, upgrading the status of teachers, insuring professional competence, and insuring high local standards for curriculum.

I have two general concerns about the legislation: funding and state vs. local control. I strongly support local control. State funding is a fiscal asset for mandatory new programs. However, funding should never interfere with other options of the citizens and school committee to decide what is best for Wilmington children.

Jacquelyn Deegan named VNA director

Jacquelyn S. Deegan, MSN, executive director of the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East, has been named to the board of directors of the new VNA Coalition of Massachusetts.

The VNA of Middlesex-East is one of the incorporators of the VNA Coalition which will cover Massachusetts for the purposes of marketing, supporting, and expanding the not-for-profit visiting nurse associations in the state.

First thrust of the Coalition, founded March 15, is a TV commercial on visiting nurses featuring the voice of Milton Berle on Channel 7.

The new VNA Coalition of which Ms. Deegan is a director is exhibiting at the Mass. Hospital Assembly April 1, 2, and 3 in Boston.

League of Women Voters questions to the candidates

Questions to Regional Vocational School Committee Candidates:

1. What are the responsibilities of, the Regional Vocational School Committee? What are your qualifications for the job?
2. What do you hope to accomplish as a member of the committee?

Margaret Power

1. The responsibilities are basically the same as our local board. My interest in the educational process is as a parent and taxpayer. Experience - working with the Wilmington superintendent's office and school committee for 14 years as a fundraiser, organizer and volunteer on our local PACs. I also have a thorough knowledge of the school since I am there on a daily basis and have a good working relationship with the administration, teachers and students.

2. A replacement and updating of books and equipment will be my first priority. The school is now over 10 years old. What was once up to date, modern equipment is now quickly becoming outdated and worn out. I'll assure our tax dollar is well spent and our students receive the best education. I would also actively represent our students, parents and residents.

Kevin John Sowyrda

1. The Vocational School Committee is the decision making body for the Shawsheen Valley Technical High school, where 265 students from Wilmington are presently enrolled. The School Committee at Shawsheen has a responsibility that is unmatched; and that is to insure an excellent, high quality education for over 15,000 students. I am prepared to take on this responsibility with great care and commitment, and to make it not just a part time activity, but instead, a full time involvement. I am a third year student in the Honors Program at Northeastern University, majoring in political science and public administration. I serve as the Public Relations Officer for the local Office of Emergency Management, and I am well prepared to serve the community in which I have lived all my life.

2. I will bring a strong, independent voice to the Vocational School Committee, and I am committed to sound leadership and a controlled budget at the Tech. If you were to ask me how I stand on fiscal matters, I would say that I am very, very conservative. I want two dollars for every one tax dollar spent. One of my first objectives will be the establishment of a sub-committee to coordinate with the region's state legislators for a more equitable funding package from the Commonwealth. Secondly, we need what I have titled "Shawsheen Tech plus High Tech." This incorporates the opinions of high-tech corporations as to the upcoming needs in the job market, and how the Tech's programming can be better suited to prepare students to meet these needs.

John M. Gillis

1. To represent the interests of the Town of Wilmington and to assure a quality vocational education for all the students who attend Shawsheen Tech.

My over 20 years experience in the business world. My experience in procurement of goods and services and dealing with budgets in excess of $15 million annually. My proven commitment to Shawsheen Tech and the youth of Wilmington.

2. Continue the town's commitment to quality education for its students; assure that the Tech is run in fiscally sound manner; initiate a strong alcohol and drug abuse education program for the students; initiate a program for both students and staff dealing with suicide prevention; to do whatever possible to see that the high standards of Shawsheen Tech are continued.

Questions for Selectmen Candidates

1. What are your qualifications for the position of Selectman? What is the distinction between you and your opponent?

2. The Board of Health has recently taken action to prohibit air pollution violations. What role do you see for the Selectmen in controlling such instances of environmental pollution?

3. How do you feel about the proposed moratorium on selling town-owned land and its subsequent sale at public auction?

4. Wilmington has lately been subject to "spot zoning." What kind of land use policy do you favor for our town?

Robert J. Cain

1. I was elected to the Board of Selectmen in 1978 and currently serving the balance of a third term. As Chairman in 1980-1981, I played an active role in the implementation of Proposition two and a half and in the re-establishment of the town and

David J. Fitzgerald

I graduated Cum Laude from Merrimack College in business administration. For the past 10 years I have managed unskilled, clerical, and professional workers while controlling departmental budgets ranging from $50,000 to $700,000 yearly. I am originally from Haverhill and new to Wilmington where I moved because of what Wilmington has to offer a family. I can offer new ideas and new approaches to old problems which will maintain Wilmington's integrity as a family oriented town.

2. I would like to see the temporary Air Pollution Task Force formed by the Town Manager on November 14 made a permanent committee working directly with the Board of Health. In instances where the Board of Health does not take affirmative action based on the Air Pollution Committee recommendations, the Selectmen must order the Board of Health to file suit against the offender or take legal action on its own to protect our residents.

3. I support the moratorium until Wilmington has updated its 1970 master development plan which will allow us to determine the best uses for all the land in Wilmington. I oppose the selling of town-owned land at public auction until a full study can be made of the benefits, other than financial, that such action would cause. Developers with high financial resources would be able to overbid well meaning residents and monopolize the available land.

4. Spot zoning is the fastest way to demoralize residents and tear apart neighborhoods. I would like to see a moratorium on all zoning changes except for conservation and environmental protection until the 1970 Master Development Plan is updated. I would like to see Wilmington stay a family oriented town balanced with industrial and commercial development located in places which will have minimal impact upon the design of a family neighborhood concept.

school budget and personal priorities due to the reduced tax levy. I am a member of the Massachusetts Selectmen's Association, the Middlesex County Selectmen's Association (Treasurer), the Middlesex County Advisory Board (Budget Committee), and the Citizen's Advisory Committee Industri-Plex 128 Hazardous Waste Site in Woburn, (Chairman - three years).

2. Air pollution has been a serious problem in Wilmington for a number of years. The procedure that the Board of Selectmen has established is that when the health director is not available, calls should be made to the Police Department so that a police officer can verify the presence of odors. This is important, in the event of violations the police can also give testimony at hearings. The Right to Know Law will make it easier to identify chemical pollutants and should violations continue we would restrict the use of these materials.

3. I voted for and support the moratorium on selling town owned land. I am concerned about its potential sale at public auction. It may be in the best interest of the town not to sell this land. Much of this property is marginal and it may be more appropriate to leave it vacant so that it does not create additional water problems in the neighborhoods during flooding conditions.

4. The change in zoning requires a two-thirds vote of town meeting. This requirement has demonstrated the ability to keep zoning changes in check. Each proposed zoning change must stand on its own merits.

Petition to investigate Reading Light ready to be signed

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is prepared to petition the Department of Public Utilities (DPU) of Massachusetts to open an investigation into rates and practices of the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD). The petition, however, is as yet unsigned.

The Chamber represents 185 industrial and commercial firms located in Wilmington. It is concerned about what it says are "discriminatory practices" of the Reading Municipal Light Department, which affects all the RMLD customers in Wilmington. The customers are not protected, the Chamber says, as are other Massachusetts customers who have protection that the DPU exercises over privately owned utilities.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce alleges that the RMLD rates are so set that they yield excessive returns from most sales outside of Reading.

The return from industrial customers, outside of Reading, the Chamber alleges, is much higher in percentage.

In the petition the Chamber says it made repeated efforts to discuss the "discriminatory" rates and practices. The RMLD, the Chamber alleges, has been "unwilling" to enter serious discussions. The RMLD refuses to negotiate the issues, while, the Chamber says, it continues to be willing to enter negotiations.

The petition to the DPU asks that the DPU investigate the methods of the RMLD in determining the size and frequency of payments to the communities, of "in lieu of tax" payments; and the methods used by the RMLD in developing the below cost rate alleged, for street lights in Reading.

The petition goes on to allege that the RMLD discriminates significantly against out-of-Reading customers, and asks that the DPU order that the RMLD adopt a more significant light rate structure. The Chamber alleges that the practices it cites about customers outside of Reading reflects voluntary actions without relationship to any rational cost allocations.

In the petition the DPU is requested to hold public hearings, in the RMLD service area. The time and location of these hearings should be convenient for the DPU, and also for RMLD customers who may wish to testify about relevant issues.

The petition was prepared by the firm of Bernstein and Smick, of Boston.

Julie Stedman in new program

New training for handicapped skiers

by Larz F. Neilson

The top levels of ski racing are not reached without serious training. Racers pay large sums for specialized coaching, in hopes of becoming world or national champions.

Until this year, handicapped ski racers wanting sophisticated coaching were on their own. The training they needed simply did not exist. But a new program at Winter Park, Colorado has begun to plug that void with specialized race training for handicapped skiers.

Among the skiers taking advantage of the program is 17-year-old Julie Stedman of Glen Road, Wilmington.

A junior at Wilmington High School, she is now in her second week of training at Winter Park, preparing for the National Handicapped Ski Championships to be held at Breckenridge, Colorado next week. A congenital leg amputee, she skis "tri-track" with one ski and two outriggers.

The home of the world's largest handicapped ski program, Winter Park is a natural location for a competition program. Last year, the Winter Park Handicapped Program provided more than 13,000 ski lessons to handicapped children and adults.

Handicapped skiing originated in Europe after World War II, as several amputee war veterans took to the slopes. But these amputees were a rarity, and the sport experienced slow growth until the 1960's, when program development and new equipment design opened the sport to more people, including many Vietnam veterans.

Interest spread in the 1970's, as Winter Park and other programs introduced more and more handicapped persons to the slopes. Skiing was also opened to people with other disabilities as well.

For many handicapped skiers, an easy slope is a real challenge. Others are bitten by the racing bug, maybe just for fun, or more likely driven by the desire to excel.

Regional, national and world competition began in the 1970's, and has today reached a high level of competition. This year more than 1000 racers took part in regional competition, with 130 qualifying for national competition. Out of this number, 30 became members of the U.S. Handicapped Ski Team.

In world competition, U.S. team members have found themselves up against well-trained skiers from other countries, some of whom trained with their national ski teams. Although dedicated to racing and determined to win, U.S. skiers have had to prepare for competition with virtually no organized training program.

For example, the U.S. Handicapped Ski Team had less than two weeks of training before setting off for the 1984 World Disabled Olympics. Even as they captured the World Cup in 1982 and a third place finish in the 1984 Olympics, U.S. Handicapped skiers clearly saw the need for a well-organized training program.

Paul DiBello was determined to do something to change this. Returning home to Conway, N.H. with his second set of four gold medals from world competition, DiBello set to work at organizing a program.

After months of seeking funding and negotiating with ski areas, he secured an agreement with Winter Park. DiBello became the director of the new Winter Park Handicapped Competition Program.

Besides an impressive collection of gold medals, DiBello brought with him a solid background in racing and instruction. Before he lost both feet in a 1974 mountain climbing accident, he had been involved in racing. After entering the world of handicapped skiing, he served as ski school director for the New England Handicapped Sportsmen's Association in the 1982-83 season.

DiBello spent much of 1984 on the phone, lining up participants for the program. The turnout for the program has been sensational, far exceeding DiBello's projections. Full-season participants totaled 23, nearly quadruple the projection of eight skiers.

More than 100 skiers from 23 states have attended week-long camps for specialized types of racing, such as three-track, four-track, or blind skiing.

The real test of the program's quality comes this week in the national championships at Breckenridge. Since it is a non-

Wildcats fall, 59-40

Tuesday, March 26 marked the second match for the Wilmington seventh grade travel team at the North Reading Youth Basketball Tournament.

The young Wildcats met a tall, fast moving, very aggressive team from Acton, New Hampshire in an exciting and hard played game, with the Acton team coming away the victor, 59-40.

Mark Bobek was top scorer with 13 points, followed by Jamey Robichaud, who hit the hoop for 12 points and Jason Oliver with 11. Chris Riccio and Peter Medberry each sank two points.

A strong defense was sparked by Mike George, K.C. Bolger and Joey McFadyen, while Joey Mahoney and Scott Tuxbury worked hard under the boards.

Saturday, March 30 the hoop team traveled to participate in the Somerville Youth Basketball Tournament and was matched with a team from Medford, St. Francis. After a slow starting game, Wilmington exploded and controlled the game for a 53-21 victory with full team effort.

Jamey Robichaud was high scorer with 21 points. Teammates

Time for repairs

Oddens Field, one of several Livingston Street fields utilized by TMHS teams, hopefully will be in better shape for the start of the season. Park foreman Ernie Lightfoot and his crew are hard at work preparing the area.

Eye Five Road Race May 18

May 12 through May 18 has been declared Journey For Sight Week in Wilmington.

It is the intent of the Wilmington Lions Club to organize and conduct the first annual Eye Five Road Race in conjunction with the Journey For Sight Week. Race profits will be donated to Massachusetts Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc. which funds basic research in vision and eye disorders by grants to organizations such as the Retina Foundation, the Joselin Clinic and others.

The race will be run May 18 at 9:30 a.m. from the K of C Hall in Wilmington. The K of C is located behind St. Thomas Church on Middlesex Avenue. It is a fast, accurate and well measured course with splits given at each mile. There will be an electronic finish line clock to ensure accurate times.

Trophies will be awarded to winners in all divisions. There will also be t-shirts to the first 200 entrants.

At the conclusion of the race each participant will receive a certificate indicating his order of finish. Refreshments will be served after the race, at which time a drawing will be held for numerous merchandise prizes donated by local merchants.

The entree fee is $5.00 pre-registration and $6.00 post entry. Pre-registration forms may be obtained by calling either Jim Buckley 658-4151 or Tom Pazyra 658-6640.

North Reading hoop camp

The fourth annual North Reading Basketball Camp will be held at North Reading High School from July 22 to August 2. Due to capacity enrollment last summer, the camp will be expanded to two sessions.

The first session, from July 22 to July 26, will be for boys entering grades six, seven and eight. The second session, from July 29 to August 2, will be for boys entering grades eight, nine and 10.

The camp will again be under the direction of North Reading High School basketball coach Barry Kipnes.

Other members of the staff will include Rich Butterworth of Hamilton-Wenham, Joe Casey of Masconomet, John Doherty of North Reading, Paul Finn of Newburyport, Tom Gallagher of Chelmsford and Barry Humphreys of Greater Lowell. Other coaches will be added to the staff at a later date.

The camp day will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Heavy emphasis will be placed on fundamentals, and all areas of individual play will be covered. The program of instruction includes drill stations, instructional tapes and lectures.

Games will be played every day, with each camper playing an equal amount of time. Enrollment is limited, which will allow for maximum playing time and attention to each camper.

In the past three years campers have attended from Andover, Auburn, N.H., Billerica, Chelmsford, Chelsea, Hamilton, Lynn, Lynnfield, Methuen, Newburyport, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Saugus, Tewksbury, Wakefield and Wilmington. Many former campers have played on their freshman, junior varsity and varsity teams.

Tuition for the week is $77.50, which includes a camp t-shirt, certificate of attendance, fundamentals handbook and coach's evaluation. For a brochure or more information, call Barry Kipnes at 664-2471 or write to Barry Kipnes, B-1 Colonial Drive, Andover, MA 01810.

Tewksbury girls' softball registration

The Tewksbury Recreation Girls Softball League will hold registration for this season's play Tuesday, April 9, from 6 to 8 p.m. and again Thursday, April 11, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the town hall auditorium for girls ages 11-16.

Birth certificates and a $2.50 insurance fee must be presented at registration. This is a sports supplemental insurance. Please make checks payable to Tewksbury Girls Softball.

All girls interested in playing softball must sign up for this season regardless of whether they played in previous years.

There are 16 intramural teams divided into two divisions, juniors 11-13 (girls must turn 11 before September 1, 1984) and seniors, 14-16 (girls cannot turn 17 before September 1, 1984).

In addition, there is a travelling A team for girls 13-17.

Questions may be directed to Bill Staniewicz 851-3233 after 5:30.

Coaches needed

Anyone interested in coaching girls softball may sign up during player registration, or call Bill Staniewicz at 851-3233. Coaches must be over 21 years of age, assistant coaches 18 years or older.

Olympic year, many foreign countries are sending their teams to the U.S. championships, making the event almost equal to world class competition.

The final week of the competition training program before nationals is devoted to members of the U.S. team, as well as skiers who qualified for the nationals in regional competition. Besides Julie Stedman, many other Bay State skiers are participating in the week of intensive training. Ted Kennedy, Jr., a leg amputee; Matthew Kut of Acushnet, who has disability of both arms, and Sarah Doherty, a native of Taunton who lost a leg in a bicycle accident are among those taking part.

As he began the week of training, DiBello predicted that most of the medals at the nationals would be won by skiers who had trained in his program.

provement plan as a "roadmap" in prioritizing large purchases. The consortium proposal, he explained, should rightfully be brought up through the normal budget process or it could cause the town to exceed the limit imposed on it by Proposition 27.

Selectman Chairman Jim Stewart pointed out that no other budget had been cut as much as the library's and, since joining the consortium is so important, he said, the town should find the money to do this. This went along with a previous impassioned plea by Library Trustee Chairman George Boyle to increase the library budget this year to keep in line with other department's budget increases.

Though Articles 8 and 9 presented by the School Department didn't generate much discussion, Stapczynski said after the meeting that the approval of both would put the town $25,000 over the levy limit.

Article 8 includes a price tag of $72,664 for several capital outlay items, many to replace worn equipment. While Article 9 seeks "roughly $26,000 for an outright purchase" of a new school department copying machine, according to Assistant Superintendent Robert Horan.

The Council on Aging is seeking an additional $39,000 from the town to help complete the remodeling of the former Buzzell School into a senior citizen center.

Member Peg McNeil spoke for the Council. She explained they raised $40,000 through grants and donations and need a total of $100,000 to complete the renovation. The $39,000, if approved through Article 27, will bring the figure to $90,000 and the Council will raise the rest of the funds itself.

Stapczynski pointed out that he allowed $15,000 for the Buzzell renovation in his recommended budget for 1986 and that any money above that would exceed the levy limit.

Article 11 asks the town to undertake a study into avenues open to Wilmington for electric sources other than Reading Light, a study which would cost approximately $15,000.

Selectman Bob Cain, who initiated the article, was not only concerned about unfair practices by Reading Light, but also about the possibility of Wilmington rates increasing by three times the present figure once Seabrook "comes on line."

Several residents spoke up in favor of the plan. They were vocal about the need for an equal voice on the Reading Light Board and an equal share of the rate increase by the town of Reading.

Walter Sowyrda of the Emergency Management Agency (formerly the Civil Defense Agency) sought through Article 29 to find a place to house "three pieces of apparatus" for his agency. He is asking for approximately $5,000 to hire a consultant to survey town-owned buildings for this purpose.

Diane Allan asked why the town couldn't look into this, to which Stapczynski replied it was a matter of priorities and the town had other space options to look into first.

The discussion of five planning board and zoning articles was delayed by Volpe until the planning board's hearing April 16. This would allow fincom members a chance to make a more "informed" recommendation on those articles, he said.

Many residents in the packed auditorium were vocally disappointed, but Volpe remained adamant. The articles in question included Article 36 to rescind PRD zoning and Article 38 to rezone land off Burlington Avenue to PRD status for condominiums.

Town-owned land sales and the special town meeting moratorium article brought forth a flurry of questions and outspoken opinions. Stewart explained the reason behind the moratorium was to allow various boards their opportunity to determine the best use of town owned land. He hoped, through the article, to also reduce some of the confusion over the process of selling such land.

Stapczynski explained to petitioners seeking 15 parcels of town land that they may be getting "a pig in a poke" as the land they hope to purchase is not free from flaws. It is tax title land and as such may require a long process to clear title and be able to build on it.

Petitioners went ahead anyway, seeking the value of their lots from Town Assessor Anthony Krzeminski, values that ranged from $10,200 to $608,000. Hanging over their heads was the threat of the three year moratorium which, if passed, would negate all 15 sales.

One budget item that stirred up more than a little interest was an $18,000 figure incorporated in the Department of Public Works (DPW) budget. This money, said Recreation Director Ron Swasey, would be used for an environmental study of Silver Lake.

According to Swasey, this is a $60,000 project, with $42,000 already committed by the state. The rest of the money must be found before the end of May. This study is being undertaken by State Rep. James Miceli and Town Clerk Pat Lynch in response to residents' fears over the cleanliness of Silver Lake.

This, said Miceli, is not seen as a pollution problem but a clean up problem, to rid the lake of weeds and algae and such. More state funds will be available to do the actual clean up should that be necessary, he added.

Lynch explained that the lake should be kept in good condition as that's "our one and only natural resource in town."

After the hearing, fincom members approved the transfer of $5,286 to the planning board's account to purchase updated aerial photographs of Wilmington. This would serve as an aid in cataloging town owned land next year.

The last time this was done was in 1976 and "a lot has developed" in the past nine years, said Town Engineer Robert Higgins.

Students to tour Europe

by Arlene Surprenant

Spring vacation in Europe. Rome, Naples, Athens, Florence, and the Isle of Capri...all this and more beckons 17 lucky Wilmington High School students as they prepare for an unforgettable learning experience under the guidance of foreign language teachers Carmelita Fernandes and Carmelina Capozzi.

The students, ranging from freshmen to seniors, with their teachers and two parent chaperones, will be leaving April 12 for a 10 day trip to Greece and Italy. This is only the second such trip undertaken by the WHS language department. Last year's included sights in France and Spain.

Cultural and historical highlights of this year's itinerary will include visits to Delphi, the Coliseum, the Forum, the Pantheon, Mt. Vesuvius, a cameo factory in Sorrento, the Blue Grotto, and many tours of museums and cathedrals to concentrate on the arts.

The Wilmington contingent will be part of a group tour sponsored by the American Institute for Foreign Study of Connecticut.

According to Miss Fernandes, who is the prime organizer of these trips, dating back to 1971 when she taught in Gardner, Ma. the institute "organizes the trip to the needs of the students."

Since last October, the students have been viewing slides and reading up on places they'd like to see in person.

This is a fun way "to see all the things they've only seen in textbooks," Miss Fernandes says. All tours - both bus and walking tours - are prearranged with local guides who speak English.

The students will stay and eat in hotels or university dorms, except for one night out in both Greece and Italy to sample foreign foods in "a nice restaurant."

The sometimes grueling schedule will require tour members to meet for a continental breakfast at 6:30 a.m., be on the road by 7:30 a.m. and back in bed by 11 p.m.

"Every day is packed," explains Miss Fernandes, adding the obvious fact that most students catch up on sleep when they arrive home April 21.

Luggage is limited to one suitcase per person plus a shoulder bag for personal items provided by the American Institute. Along with her luggage, Miss Fernandes also plans to take along 12 pounds of mixed dried foods to divide among her charges for snacks.

Students will be encouraged to speak the language of the country. Miss Fernandes herself is learning a smattering of Greek from a Wilmington student of Greek heritage.

Most of the students taking the trip are serious students who will benefit from this experience. "they're practically handicapped," Miss Fernandes added, and most managed to earn at least part of the $1200 cost themselves.

The pupils will be required to keep a diary of their experiences to share with others, along with any slides and pictures they take, once they return to Wilmington.

"Some of my friends think this is the craziest thing that I do - giving up my vacation," laughs Miss Fernandes.

But she wouldn't have it any other way. "The kids are so impressed and in awe of what they see," she says, adding that "it's such a marvelous thing to have such an extended classroom."

Candidates address seniors

At the Council on Aging meeting held at the Senior Center last Monday candidates seeking political office in the upcoming April 20 election were invited to speak. A pleasing number of candidates accepted the invitation.

SECURITY

It's become a major consideration these days

By JIM HAGGERTY

BURLINGTON — The role of the security company in communities like Burlington and Woburn along Route 128 has changed dramatically in the last two decades.

In the future, security companies will be playing an expanded role in every community in this area, feels Kenneth Murphy, a former Police Chief in Woburn and now the Chief of Security at the Lahey Hospital in Burlington.

Murphy took his law enforcement expertise and converted it to raising the level of professionalism in the security business when he left as chief in 1981. And, in the nearly five years spent with security force, he sees them playing a much stronger role in both police and fire protection in the future.

The growth of industry, along with the complexities of a modern society, have given birth to the security industry throughout this area.

Security firms, Murphy will tell groups, are remembered as fly-by-night outfits with limited capabilities, along the lines of night watchmen. Now, full security requires a great deal of planning, training and the creation of an awareness among people of the need for security in a highly-congested area.

Lahey Clinic is one example.

The hospital operates 24-hours a day, 7 days a week. Doctors, nurses, patients and visitors come and go regularly. Security is a major consideration of everyone in the hospital.

Added to the fact the hospital occupies some 700,000 square feet of floor space and sees 2,000 to 3,000 patients a week, security becomes an even more important consideration. In addition, the 2300 Lahey employees adds tremendously to the traffic in an out of the hospital. The Lahey employees are the second or third largest hospital force in the country.

"Hospitals are open all day and there is an 'open door' policy," notes Murphy. "In turn, you get security problems."

In a recent edition, Boston Magazine noted the crimes involved at shopping malls because of their size and Lahey, for example, is just a short distance from the Burlington Mall. "If you add in the businesses in the area, Route 128, Route 3 and I-93," intones Murphy, "you get some idea of the problems that exist."

The changing of times has taken security out of the dark ages and has given birth to an entire new business — one that demands constant review and a high degree of professionalism.

Rather than just protecting some building and machinery, security now gets into a host of areas, including internal security to protect a property. "Just take Lahey as an example," notes Murphy. "There are some 3,000 items that can be used in any household. The same holds true in varying degrees for other businesses."

In addition, the security forces must also adopt philosophies and policies for everyone alike. "We consider our security to be part of patient care," adds Murphy, who has been the chief of security since the hospital opened. "We spend a great deal of time in training security personnel on this point as well as in the training of hospital personnel at orientation and training sessions."

In recent years, Murphy points out, local police departments have been hurt by Proposition 2½ which puts more pressure on businesses and hospitals to provide adequate security. In fact, Murphy estimates the ratio of security officers to local police officers is now 2:1 with security forces growing. "We work in harmony with the Burlington Police and Fire Departments," relates Murphy, "and we have joint training exercises, like a fire drill."

Still, self-protection with in-house security has become a necessity along the still-expanding electronics belt. Lahey, for example, has both uniformed and non-uniformed security personnel. Some are in surveillance in the parking lots; others are inside the building. Irregularities are reported instantly to an office maintained by Murphy.

"We don't arm anyone," cautions Murphy. Local authorities

Late night TV

I confess — I'm a late-late-night tv viewer. This may come as a surprise to you regular readers, since I usually put down most of what appears on television. So why would I want to watch television at late-late night?

Well, I also tend to suffer from insomnia from time to time, and there is only so much creative juice that can flow during those wee hours of the morning.

So when I run out of things to write, I occasionally turn to the telly. Until I discovered what sort of programs were worth watching at that hour of the morning, I generally found myself falling to sleep pretty quickly.

Then I discovered something worth viewing, and the whole thing backfired on me. I found myself staying awake — heaven forbid — and watching television until all hours. I'll tell you what program caught my attention later.

First I want to say that I no longer have cable tv in my house. I'm usually too busy to watch all those channels, so the expense isn't worth my while.

When I do turn on the tv during the wee hours, I have to stick with free tv, which is for the most part totally inane. After Nightline, that terrific early-late-night news program with Ted Koppel on ABC, there's nothing in the way of other news shows or sports programs, the only types of programming that

Reading Rotary Road Race on April 21st

The Reading Rotary Club will hold its annual Road Race in Reading on Sunday, April 21 and will once again feature a 10k road race and a 1 1/2 mile fun run. The race has become one of the most popular and features one of the largest turnouts of any road race run in the greater Boston area.

Once again Rotarian Allan Bissett will be the director of the race and as always, everything is planned to the finest detail to insure a well run and enjoyable race. A majority of the membership of the Reading club will also be on hand that day to aid and assist competitors before, during and after the race. Everything will be handled in a first class fashion.

The race will be limited to the first 600 runners who register and it is advised that pre-registration through the mail is the best way to guarantee a slot. BayBank Middlesex and TASC (Technical Analytic Sciences Corporation) will be the major sponsors of the race. Tee shirts will be presented to the first 300 who register and runners hats will be presented to the next 300 participants.

As always the race will begin at the Reading YMCA, just to the rear of Reading Memorial High School, and will wind its way through Reading's backroads before ending up back at the "Y." The race will feature such things as water stations, police traffic control, split times and medical assistance.

There will be a number of categories and trophies to match in both the male and female areas as well as for the young and the old. None has been left out. If a person enjoys running, there is a category in

Colonial shows Hearn vs. Hagler

Residents of the North Shore will be able to see the much-heralded Marvin Hagler-Tommy Hearn fight-of-the-century close to home on two giant screens at Colonial, exit 31, Rte. 128 in Lynnfield, as it takes place Monday evening, April 15.

The screens have been arranged so that every seat is a

Tips offered on preventing osteoporosis

Elder Affairs Secretary Richard H. Rowland alerted elders today that the number one health problem among American women as they age is osteoporosis, a crippling bone disease frequently associated with pain and fractures, especially hip fractures.

"Osteoporosis is a bone disease that affects about 25 percent of women over age 60," Rowland said. "This bone-thinning condition, which frequently affects thin women with small frames, can be prevented." Current research has linked inadequate calcium in the diet, inadequate exposure to sunlight, decreasing hormone levels, and inactivity as possible contributing factors to osteoporosis. Rowland urged middle aged and older women to practice proper dietary and exercise habits to help prevent deterioration of the bones. "Two servings of milk or other dairy products like yogurt are essential for the intake of calcium," he said. "An adequate amount of Vitamin D is also needed for the absorption of calcium. Regular exercise activity, such as walking, jogging, dancing, or bicycling can be another preventive measure."

More information on osteoporosis is available from the Executive Office of Elder Affairs by contacting Joanne Lee at 727-1243.

comfort. There also will be plenty of free parking right at Colonial's door for the further convenience of fans.

Colonial's George W. Page, who arranged to bring the fight to his resort establishment, said he was encouraged by the enthusiasm of the fight fans who filled the Season's Ballroom to capacity for the Hagler-Duran fight last year.

Because of the wild enthusiasm for the Hagler-Hearn fight, Mr. Page urges that tickets be purchased early because seats are limited.

Tickets at the modest price of $35 are available in the lobbies of both the Hilton at Colonial and Page's at Colonial restaurants. Mr. Page emphasized that there will be advanced sales only. No tickets will be available the night of the fight.

Further information may be obtained by calling 245-9300.

WHY BUY A BETTER CRIB?

If you are planning on having two or more children, if you wish to keep a crib in the family, if you want to be able to store a crib over a period of time without warping or weakening, if you want a crib that will not be ruined by an active infant, if you like to have good quality furniture, if you feel a crib that surpasses all the minimal federal safety standards is important, The Baby's Room recommends only better cribs to us.

It is not difficult to determine what makes a better crib. The combination of high grade hardwood, steel hardware, special corner post reinforcements, and safety design are made only by a few manufacturers. Extra care in the sanding and staining of the wood are also key factors in determining quality. The staff of The Baby's Room will be happy to discuss any and all questions you may have.

ciscanism, but to internalize and externalize the spirit of peace offered by a poor little man, St. Francis of Assisi, the founder of the illustrious Franciscan Order.

Francis lived in a world similar to ours today. He himself sought fame and fortune. He was to inherit his father's cloth business. Francis enjoyed the fellowship of his friends and was the life of the party. He also went to war with these same companions.

Something happened to Francis. For some reason, he made a 360 degree turn-about.

What did happen? Why did Francis completely change his life-style? What does St. Francis have to offer each person today? What suggestions? What solutions? How would this one solitary life have affected the world over a span of more than 800 years.

How did the luminaries of the Franciscan Order, St. Bonaventure and John Duns Scotus, among others, interpret the life story and ideals of the "poverello." What is the impact of these ideals on the history of the Franciscans? Who are the Franciscans? What have they achieved? What is their history?

All these issues, and many more, will be presented and addressed during the Franciscan Seminars and Retreats at St. Francis Institute for eight weeks, starting Easter Monday, April 8. For more information, call Fr. Lucius Annesse, O.F.M. at (617) 851-7910 or write to St. Francis Institute, 459 River Road, P.O. Box 263, Andover, Mass. 01810.

FITNESS CLASS FOR PREGNANT MOMS

Expectant mothers can learn how to exercise safely during pregnancy at a six-week class offered by New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham, starting Thursday, April 11, from 7:00-8:30 p.m.

Participants must pre-register for the course and have their physician's permission before beginning the program. Cost for the six weeks is $30.00. Classes will be held in the Physical Therapy department on the subground level of the hospital. For additional information and forms contact Susa Harkless at NEMH, 665-1740, ext. 316.

The program was developed by the Physical Therapy and OB/GYN departments to teach mothers-to-be about essentials of safe exercise throughout pregnancy and into the post-partum months. Run by two physical therapists, each

Thursday evening class will include stretching and gentle exercise, a relaxation segment, and a brief lecture.

This class is not a substitute for early and natural childbirth classes offered by the hospital's maternity unit but rather a complement to these programs.

This year's theme "Triumphs and Tragedies in History" will be illustrated in the following categories: historical papers, individual projects, group projects, individual performance, group performance, and media presentation.

At Collins Center

A night of great country music

Some of the finest flat pickers around combine with a rich blend of vocal harmonies in an exciting traditional bluegrass experience as The Doug Dillard Band and The Northwest Bluegrass Band bring their country music to the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover on Friday, April 12 at 8 p.m.

Doug Dillard and his group of outstanding musical artists have attracted millions to their foot-stomping, hand-clapping, banjo-style bluegrass. Doug, a banjo master himself and founder of the band, has led a unique career. An original member of The Byrds, Doug worked with a host of other famed performers including The Beachboys, The Monkees, Glen Campbell and Linda Ronstadt. It was Doug's five-string banjo featured on the soundtracks for the films "Bonnie & Clyde," "Van-

Entries in the junior division, grades 6, 7 and 8 will be judged separately from those in the senior division 9, 10, 11 and 12. The students who earn first or second place in this state competition will be invited to participate in the national contest in June at the University of Maryland.

The Museums will be open 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. There will be no charge above museum admission, adults, $3.00, senior citizens and students (with I.D.), $2.00, children 6-16, $1.50.

ishing Point" and "Bunny O'Hare" among others. He also appeared in "Popeye" and Bette Midler's "The Rose."

The inexhaustible and luxurious voices of Ginger Boatwright (former lead singer with "Red, White & Blue") and Kathy Chiavola have contributed significantly to the band's dynamic sounds. Ginger's "voice of an Appalachian earth mother" and Kathy's operatic background add spice to Doug's banjo and Jonathan Yudkin's fiddle.

Joining The Doug Dillard Band will be Bill Hall and The Northwind Bluegrass. Dedicated to playing traditional classics, they are best known for their outstanding instrumental arrangements in two-, three- and four-part harmony. A mem-

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

Friday the 13th Part 5 / Porky's Revenge
Desperately Seeking Susan

Friday the 13th, Part V — A New Beginning Starring John Shepherd, Shavar Ross, Melanie Kinnaman, Dick Wileand. Directed by Danny Steinmann. Produced by Timothy Silver. Rated R (excessive violence, profanity, nudity).

Butcher knife, ice pick, axe, flare, machete, hunting knife, hedge shears, leather strap, sharpened tent pole, meat cleaver, spike, tractor harrow.

There you have it, the entire plot of Friday the 13th, Part V — A New Beginning, in one sentence. Oh, there is a bit of dialogue, and a sparsely strung together plot, but the basis of this movie is nothing but sheer, exploitive violence.

Those less bloody souls who have not followed the murderous career of Jason Vorhees should be warned that this is his fifth crazed rampage, despite the fact that he was cremated in a previous episode. Just goes to show that you can't keep a crazed psychopath down.

Anyway, Jason, or someone wearing his trademark hockey mask, is terrorizing a sleepy, rural town — primarily the patients at the Unger Institute of Mental Health. This is a real switch, as Jason usually has a penchant for campers. A thorough creature, this neighborhood loonie apparently carries with him a complete arsenal of weapons, and the audience is treated to a body count of 22, if you include the dream sequences. Of course, no one ever does anything obvious, like shoot the guy. In a true slasher pic, characters are only allowed to scream, die or slash back. However, they can only fight back in the last 10-15 minutes of the film. This type of film is so formulated that the amount of people who pay cold cash to see it is truly amazing.

There is an obvious teaser at the end of Friday the 13th, Part V for yet another sequel. Which makes one wonder when this nonsense is going to stop. What's next? A Jason and the Campers board game? Or, sugar-coated Jason breakfast cereal, made up of tiny machetes and marshmallow ice picks? Think about it, would anyone really be surprised if Jason Halloween costumes were all the rage next autumn? Probably not.

Porky's Revenge Starring Dan Monahan, Wyatt Knight, Tony Ganos, Mark Herrier, Kaki Hunter, Scott Colomby. Directed by James Komack. Produced by Robert Rosen. Written by Ziggy Steinberg. Rated R (profanity, nudity).

Porky's Revenge is the kind of movie people always refer to as "a typical, teen exploitation film." So, if you are really curious as to what this prototype is about, go ahead and see it. Otherwise, do not waste your money.

This is the third excursion for the gang at Angel Beach High, a mythical school in Florida. And boy, have they ever aged since the first Porky's movie. Some of the guys in this flick look like they are pushing 30. But, since the rest of the film is so unrealistic, this point really isn't out of context.

What plot there is concerns a slobbering fat man appropriately named Porky (Chuck Mitchell), who runs a floating bordello thinly disguised as a paddle boat. His "revenge" is against that fun loving bunch of brats known as the Angel Beach Six, five guys and a gal who love to play pranks. In the previous Porky movies, their pranks have leveled Porky's dens of iniquity, so needless to say, he wants to get even. However, even this shallow plot is thinned out by meaningless sub-plots and silly vignettes that are supposed to be uproariously funny, but in actuality fall somewhere between boring and offensive.

It goes without saying that sexism runs rampant in this type of film. The one young woman who is as eager to jump into bed as her male counterparts is told to "be a nice girl," and later forced into marriage. Whereas the panting young males are patted on the back as they actively search out sex in the most vulgar of manners.

Aside from rampant sexism, this film is generally crude, poorly acted and fuzzily shot. And, although there was absolutely nothing redeeming about Porky's or Porky's II: The Next Day — under the talentless eye of director James Komack, they are fine art compared to Porky's Revenge. Let us hope that even the teenaged boys at whom this drivel is aimed will tire of it, and the Porky's films will dry up and blow away.

Desperately Seeking Susan Starring Rosanna Arquette, Madonna, Aiden Quinn, Mark Blum. Directed by Susan Seidelman. Produced by Sarah Pillsbury and Midge Sanford. Written by Leora Barish. Rated PG-13 (profanity, nudity).

Not since William Powell got a nasty bump on the head in 1940's I Love You Again, has amnesia received as much attention as in director Susan Seidelman's Desperately Seeking Susan.

Of course, movies that revolve around amnesia tend to be far fetched, but Seidelman keeps this comedy of errors on such a tight course that the audience is involuntarily drawn into the boring, pasturized existence of Roberta (Rosanna Arquette), a New Jersey housewife. Roberta is married to an insensitive, suburban clod (Mark Blum) who sells hot tubs, and makes his own idiotic television commercials.

For diversion, Roberta reads a tabloid's personal ads, and follows the love affair of Susan (Madonna) and her musician boyfriend Jimmy (Robert Joy), who hook up with each other through the ads. Roberta's fascination with this nomadic couple causes her to seek them out when an ad appears, and through amnesia and mistaken identity, Roberta becomes Susan.

There is a sub-plot about stolen Egyptian artifacts that eventually becomes necessary to the plot, but is not the best part of this film. It is when Arquette's Roberta becomes more and more merged with the wildcat Susan's life that Desperately Seeking Susan is fascinating. This is because Roberta dons the trappings of her fantasy, but underneath is still the moderate housewife.

Madonna, and her character, are both intriguing creatures. Susan is a carefree alleycat who represents absolute freedom, and Madonna, with her mused hair, pouty mouth, and revealing clothes is visually perfect. Her acting, however, is only passable and it is doubtful if she could play a character who is not based on Madonna. Arquette, on the other hand, is a charmer. She has a cherubic face and sweet smile that only enhance her ditzzy, peppy performance.

Seidelman does an amazing job of keeping the plot under control. The unrealities and coincidences begin to make sense, and this fun little romp through fantasyland is often quite funny, and at the very least, clever. However, this is truly escapist material, and nothing that will walk away with any awards. But, who cares? Desperately Seeking Susan is romantic, humorous and absorbing. That combination alone is enough to put a smile on your face any rainy, dull afternoon.

TRAPPED INSIDE a wooden shack, Miguel A. Nunez Jr. screams in terror as a long sharp tent pole is rammed through the enclosure in Paramount Pictures' "Friday the 13th — A New Beginning."

What are Americans eating more of these days?

According to requests from McCall's readers, there is a desire for nutritious recipes that use more fresh fish, fruits, and vegetables, yogurt, pastas and whole grains. Plus a plentiful supply of ethnic and regional specialties; reduced-calorie recipes; dishes that make imaginative use of convenience foods or are prepared with the microwave or food processor.

All these and more can be found featured in "The New, Revised & Updated McCall's Cookbook," published by Random House.

The cookbook has over 1,000 recipes that fit the way people eat today.

Here is one typical recipe from the book, highlighting yogurt and fruit for an easy to prepare soup.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

"Speak to me of love and say what I'm longing to hear. Tender words of love, repeat them again I implore you." This is the first line of a beautiful song that was popular years ago.

But words of love that are not put into practice are like preaching an eloquent sermon but not vibrantly living it. It is indeed important to say, "I love you," but it's better to say it with flowers, compassion and understanding.

Talking is like steam escaping from a whistling tea-kettle. The sound may be melodious and pleasing to the listening ear, but it doesn't accomplish anything. Sing songs to those you love — then hug, kiss and embrace them — even a gentle touch will do far more to prove your love than a torrent of words.

My wife Kathy, reading this chip, said, "Okay, put your money where your mouth is and buy me a mink coat." I told her that "because of the great love that I have for animals, I can't do that — but I'll buy you a coat from 'Sacks.'"

"You mean 'Sak's' Fifth Avenue?" she asked excitedly. "No," I answered as I ran for cover, "I mean 'Sacks' from the potato fields of Maine."

I am grateful for the responses that I am getting for this column: Dora Hirtle of Wilmington wrote to tell me that she saves all the Woodchips articles and wishes that I would compile them in a book; this week, Lydia Bagdikian of Wakefield, formerly of Stoneham, sent me a lovely letter via the nursing homes and hospitals in the area; and my dear friend, Connie Johnson of Honeycomb in Wakefield reminds her customers to be sure to read this column.

Then if I needed something to deflate my ego, my Aunt Maria of Wilmington calls me every Thursday when she gets the Town Crier to remind me again and again that she hates the column, but her parakeet loves it when she puts a copy of it on the bottom of the cage every week.

Bob Carpenter of Burlington is a bus driver for the 'T.' If he ran for office I'd vote for him — I like a 'middle-of-the-roader.' Bob's son, Scot, is a firefighter in Burlington — which reminds me that I didn't get my dog back yet the firechief borrowed to help find the hydrants in the snow drifts last winter.

Where do you think Fred Carpenter would work? Why, in a lumber yard, of course. And he does — at Barker's in Woburn, where my friends are — like Bill McCall, who has been there since the 'oak tree was an acorn'; John Dennison, who is 'chairman of the board'; his son, John Jr., who attends panel discussions and helps solve 'knotty' problems; and Scot Bryan, who is waiting for a Hollywood scout to discover him. I'll go out on a 'limb' and say "Soon, Scot."

I must not forget the beautiful lady that adds class to the place — Florence Magrain, who keeps all the accounts straight. Florence is from Reading.

Carrie Harman of Tewksbury is the 1985 Easter Poster Child. This courageous young lady touches the strings of our hearts as she gives everyone a great big smile. Give generously to Easter Seals.

Frank Towle of Stoneham is proud of the prize brown trout he caught in Horn Pond in Woburn. It weighed six pounds, six ounces. My advice to you is this, Frank: be careful of too much fishing — it made me 'hard of hearing.'

I was fishing at Horn Pond last summer, when my Aunt Maria asked me, "Are you fishing, Woodchipper?" "No," I replied, "I'm teaching a worm how to swim." "Oh!" she exclaimed. "There's a worm on the other end of that line, too?"

I love to watch Nancy Kerrigan as she skates so gracefully for the Stoneham Figure Skating Club. When I was a young 'blade' and learning to skate, the instructor told me, "You're on your knees so much you ought to put skates on them."

Richard (Dick) Morris will be honored as '1984 Man of the Year' by the Tewksbury Chamber of Commerce. Previous honorees were Athletic Director Robert Aylward for 1981; Tewksbury State Hospital Administrator Tom Saunders for 1982; and the pastor of St. William's Church, Father Joseph Blaney OMI for 1983.

My mother-in-law remembers when Abraham Lincoln was 'Man of the Year' in Illinois. Wow!

April Smallidge is a young lady of many talents. Besides being an accomplished singer, she is also a great artist. April graduated from Wilmington High School in 1984 with honors. She is an excellent runner, breaking the school's track record in the hurdles. April, I am interested in your poetry — please send me one or two poems, and I'll do the same. Thank you, Arlene Surprenant, for your wonderful article about this beautifully talented young lady.

One has to travel away from his or her home turf to know how many people read and appreciate what you write. Mary Gail MacMaster of Lowell reads this column because her handsome Marine Reserve brother, Dan, brings home a copy of the Woburn Times. Mary Gail is a school teacher with a marvelous sense of humor.

I had a teacher like that — Miss Sullivan. In a spelling bee, she asked me to spell 'Mississippi.' "The river or the state?" I asked with a wry smile. "The river is much longer." But I met my match when this wonderful lady said, "Spell the river and try not to 'flounder' in the middle of it." I loved her — she kept me on my toes better than my ballet teacher.

Thank God It's Spring Again
Have you ever walked a country road
In the springtime of the year?
And seen the pretty flowers
That bring us all good cheer?

Have you ever walked a sandy beach
And watched the waves ride high?
Perhaps a lonely gull flew up
Then circled in the sky?

These many things are nature's way
To tell us one and all
Of the beauty that's all around us
That we thought we lost last fall.

"Oh, Lord," as we look in wonder
As spring slowly unfolds
We know God's in his heaven and He is the guardian of our souls.

Poem EASTER

"He is not here," an angel said.
"He is risen, He is not dead."
These words, said many years ago,
Give hope to all as we all know.
A wooden cross stood on a hill,
As sun and moon and stars stood still.
The darkness came and thunder roared,
As winds sounded their master chord.

Then one bright morn the world awoke,
From earthly sleep, as an angel spoke.
And gave good news for all to hear,
There's eternal life, no death to fear.
For Christ has said, "Come follow me,
And live with me eternally."
So — rejoice on this, our Easter Morn!
This is the day our faith is born.

Colonial Chorus

Colonial Chorus to stage 'Follies'

Anyone who has harbored a silent love over the years and wondered what it might be like to resolve unfinished business will not want to miss Colonial Chorus Players' upcoming production of Stephen Sondheim's "Follies," April 13, 19 and 20 at the Reading Memorial High School.

Set on the stage of an old Broadway theatre about to be torn down, "Follies" is the story of aging Ziegfeld-type entertainers who have been brought together for a first (and last) reunion to "stumble through a song or two and lie about ourselves a little." A white-haired once golden-voiced tenor sings "Hats Off! Here They Come Those Beautiful Girls" and the ex-Follies girls descend the staircase — no longer so young nor so beautiful. The theatre is filled with performers from impresario Dimitri Weissman's Follies, as well as the ghosts of their elegantly costumed selves from a bygone era.

It is against this backdrop that two unhappily married couples, inseparable friends during their stage years, make a last frantic attempt to recapture their pasts. Sally Durant, as a pert, bubbly somewhat silly chorine 30 years ago danced to handsome, ambitious Ben Stone's music more fervently than she did Weiss-man's. She and Ben loved, laughed, and loved some more, and it never occurred to her that her lack of polish would forever preclude a future for them. Rather, he rejects her for her best friend, the more reticent, more marriageable Phyllis Rogers, and devastates Sally in the process. Angry and humiliated, she seeks solace in Ben's friend, Buddy Plummer, the ever-devoted-everybody's-best-friend-Buddy, who is determined to win her over through his unconditional love and affection. But Ben's hold on Sally never leaves her, and now well into middle age with two grown children and a white picket fence, she awakes each morning in Buddy's arms pretending that he is her erstwhile lover.

Sally is played by television actress Kim Davis of Andover, who has been featured in such shows as "The Edge of Night," "Nero Wolfe," and "Texas."

Her marvelous lyric soprano voice will enchant listeners in her renditions of "Losing My Mind," "In Buddy's Eyes," and "Too Many Mornings." In addition to her television work, Davis has had a prolific stage career including the roles of Philia in "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum," and Elvira in "Blithe Spirit."

Playing her younger self is bright, young actress Jacqui Copp of Brookline, whose strong musical theatre presence in such shows as "Judy! Judy! Judy!" and "Anything Goes" has marked her as a performer to watch. Audiences will particularly enjoy her singing and dancing duets in "The Girls Upstairs" and "Love Will See Us Through."

Al Pirnie of Burlington, who is well-known to area theatregoers for his recent leading roles in "Godspell," "California Suite," and "Seven Keys to Baldpate," will portray Ben Stone. Reading audiences in particular will remember Pirnie for his humorous renditions of "I'll Never Be Jealous Again," and "Summer Nights" in CCP's More or Less Amour Dinner Theatre Cabaret a couple of seasons back.

Young Ben features Don Stansfield of Ipswich, a talented young actor who has charmed North Shore audiences with his

Stoneham pastor takes Easter odyssey

By JIM ROUILLARD

Not everyone gets driven through the promised land by a man called Moses. But Stoneham's John French was.

And if the pastor to the people of that town's First Baptist Church does bring forth "limestone" — though not quite in the same method as manna from the Sinai — he maintains he is a man upon whose head a halo would sit with great unease.

The "limelight," the Rev. French explained, is a variety of honeydew melon, which he grows in the parsonage garden on Congress Street. We'll get to the halo later.

The 34-year-old preacher was lucky enough to realize a longtime dream this year, to usher in the season of Lent with a trip to Israel.

A recent interview with the bearded minister and father of three supplied an appropriate theme for the season of Easter and Passover — and helped put into context the importance of the city of Jerusalem to three major world religions. He would major world religions. He would probably be the first to disclaim it, but John French is something of a Renaissance man, with broad enthusiasms in theology, art, music and literature. A Christian whose faith resounds strong as a clarion, the former high-school football player and grade-school teacher said, nevertheless, with a grin, that his "halo is off all the time — I'd rather be human."

enriched each of our experiences by having the other denominations present."

A Malden native, who has a Master of Divinity degree from South Hamilton's Gordon-Conwell Seminary, the Rev. French came as pastor to Stoneham some three years ago, from a post as Minister of Christian Education in West Hartford, Connecticut.

He said that on his arrival in Jerusalem, he remarked facetiously to his companions, "Well, we've been here two hours and I haven't seen Jesus yet."

"You get there," he added, "and you almost expect to see Jesus or one of his disciples, because of the associations of the places you've read and studied about for so many years."

The tour included a trip to the Dead Sea, which lies in the deepest known fault or fracture in the earth's crust, and whose surface is 1,292 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. It's a place where the absence of life is striking, John said.

The group's bus driver through Israel was a man called "Moshe" — or Moses — and John said the tour guide commented on their luck in the circumstance though, unlike his modern counterpart, the Moses of the Bible never made it to the promised land.

The group did not travel to the Sinai Desert, French added, so they did not see any manna, which is cited in the Book of Exodus as food for the Israelites when they fled Egypt. The type of manna mentioned in Exodus: "when the sun waxed hot, it melted," is thought to have been a species of alga, which rapidly forms large jelly-like masses on moist ground, according to botanists.

John said his primary regret of the trip was that his wife, Jan (Lindsay), who also grew up in Malden, could not accompany him — but remained in Stoneham with the couple's children: Lindsay, six, Christopher, three, and Jeffrey, one.

French said he would not go so far as to say he actually felt the holy spirit while in Jerusalem, but he did stress that he felt "a presence. And when we were on the Mount of Olives we saw two rainbows above the Temple Mount and the Dome of the Rock, which is a Muslim shrine."

"A double rainbow had been a sign to Noah from God that 'I will not destroy the earth.' "

But French maintains that "you can feel the spirit of Christ anywhere; you don't have to go to Jerusalem to experience it. You can feel it in Israel... or in Stoneham."

Which helps bring us back to Easter. Just as Jerusalem is a place which contains most of the holy sites of three major world faiths, Christian, Jewish and Muslim, so is the celebration of Easter a convergence of three traditions: pagan, Hebrew, and Christian.

The customs observed at this time of year — ranging from the bright coloring of Easter eggs to the spotless napkins of the Jewish Passover festival and the familiar strains of Bach's "Easter Oratorio," are a few among the many that derive from the three traditions.

From the pagan, the word Easter itself comes from the Norse Ostara, or Eostre, meaning the festival of spring at the vernal equinox, when nature is in resurrection after winter, according to the Venerable Bede, eighth-century English historian; thus the rabbits, notable for their fecundity, and the eggs, colored like the rays of the returning sun and the northern lights.

Hebrew: in Exodus can be read the account of the night in Egypt when the angel of death "passed over" the dwellings of the Israelites, to spare their first born. Hence, the Passover, celebrated during the first month of the Hebrew year, according to theologians.

Finally, the Christian "moveable feast" of Easter can fall anywhere between March 22 and April 25, and ranks in importance with Christmas. It was at the feast of the Passover in Jerusalem that Jesus, a Jew, was crucified and rose from the dead, according to the New Testament.

As for his own faith, though John French might be classed as a Christian for action and for today, it would not be hard to imagine him as a presence, as well, at the inception of Christianity — a religion whose concepts were viewed as sufficiently revolutionary to the politicians of the time to warrant crucifixion.

French maintains that faith and prayer themselves may not be only reassuring, but possibly disturbing — even revolutionary, for the individual:

"And when his time was ready, he laid his hammer down.

And went out to use those hands to heal

And turn men's lives around."

— Steve Adams

For John French, the key phrase in those lines about Christ would probably be "And turn men's lives around," — whatever that might mean for the individual Christian.

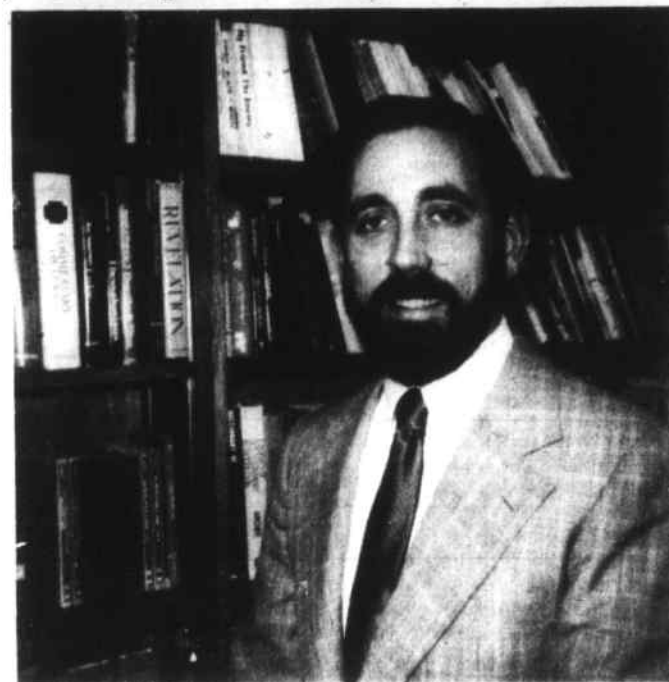

Enconced in the pastor's study — lined with books ranging from those of C. S. Lewis to Dorothy Sayres — at the Baptist Church on Main street, the youthful minister sits beneath a print of Jean Millet's "The Sower," and opposite another of a Winslow Homer fisherman. His taste in art provides a key, by these two examples at least, of John French's ministry to and affinity for the individual.

Millet's strong, simple paintings of sturdy farmers and the countryside of France led some of his contemporaries to perceive him as a revolutionary and "dangerously socialistic," according to Yale art historian George Heard Hamilton.

But that was a time of ferment and revolution in 19th-century Europe. And though John French by no means counsels secular revolution, he said his faith encompasses the hope and the possibility for individual revolution, through Christ as redeemer — a hope central to the celebration of Easter.

From S-11

"In the beauty of the lilies,
Christ was born across the sea,"

Julia Ward Howe
"The Battle Hymn
of the Republic"

From "Glory hallelujah" to the glory of Handel's "Mess-siah," the feast day of Easter itself is primarily a Christian event.

In his journey to Israel, the Rev. French said he touched the past and the present of the holy city — from the tomb which may have been Christ's, its approach laced with scarlet poppy blossoms — to the bullet holes in Jerusalem's City Hall, tangible mementos of political events as recent as 1967, when Israel took over control of the city from Jordan.

Yet, even beyond that, while in Jerusalem, John French touched what is for him and for others, Christian, Muslim and Jew, a piece of the universal, by touching the soil of a land which remains holy to so many of the earth's millions.

Sturbridge Village program for April AARP meeting

The next meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held Friday, April 12 at the Melrose
Highlands Congregational Church on Franklin Street at 1:30 P.M.

The speaker will be Andrew
H. Baker, head interpreter for Town agriculture at Sturbridge Village. Program will include slides of Sturbridge Village. Mr.
Baker will be in costume appropriate to years ago (early 1800's?). He has appeared on TV; NBC and BPS as well as presenting his program in many prominent places. He is in charge of the main village outdoor activities, plantings, animals and demonstrations.

All monthly meetings of the Chapter are held at the Melrose
Highlands Congregational Church on the second Friday of each month September through June at 1:30 P.M. unless otherwise announced. Members and also guests interested, come from Lynnfield, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield and other towns.

The Friday, March 8th

meeting was opened at 1:30
P.M. by President Signe Bickell.
The invocation was given by the Rev. David Crosby, associate minister of the First Baptist Church of Melrose. The meeting started with the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The secretary's report was read by Carolyn Norton and the treasurer's report by Katherine Kennedy, and approved as read.

Wilbur Canady of the Melrose Council on Aging mentioned future programs; Professor Backman on food at the senior center, a loss of hearing program, tax services for senior citizens and one on dental education.

Bill Keating, our expert on Legislation mentioned health care costs, fuel costs, adequate housing for low income residents, need of more housing, reduction of taxes, unfair taxes
and protection for the elderly.
The details are available from the State office or Bill Keating can put one in touch with the proper service.

Helen Fazio on membership reported there are now 366 members plus 10 more new members at this meeting for a total of 376 plus three guests.

Leonard Gebhard mentioned an AARP trip to Mystic Seaport on May 16, now filled up but there is a waiting list. Those who have signed up, but not paid, should pay Katherine Kennedy
by May 1st.

The informal program for this meeting was one of Line Dancing led by Will Crocker. A "Pie Social" was held at the same time with members having a choice of pies and coffee during the meeting while the dancing was going on.

Among the beautiful dances going on were "Broken Hearts,
You're the Only Gal for Me,
Sweet Georgia Brown, Continental Bus Stop, Jessie Polka, Tiny Bubbles, Wasted Days and Wasted Nights, To You Sweetheart, and Aloha" and many more before the dances were concluded. Besides the dancing, the audience enjoyed all the events.

Look into private sources for college aid

Students who think they cannot afford the college of their choice should think again.
Despite reductions in federal student aid programs, a substantial amount of aid remains available from non-government sources. Philanthropic organizations, churches, corporations and professional associations award over $3 billion worth of grants, scholarships and loans each year.

These programs are not limited to geniuses and all-star athletes. Eligibility often is based on occupational goals, work experience, geographic preference, military service, union membership and other personal factors. For example, some former newspaperboys are eligible for $3,000 awards from Newspaperboy Scholarships,
Inc. Students who have worked part-time in a retail food store may receive $1,000 grants from the P.D. Agostino Scholarship Fund. There are scholarships for students of Armenian, Syrian and Lebanese descent,
for children of New Haven Railroad employees, and children of veterans of the armed forces.

There are thousands of scholarship programs. The problem is a lack of information. Last year, over $145 million of student aid went unused because students didn't know how or where to apply.

An organization called National Student Services helps students identify the specific aid programs for which they qualify. Using an extensive computer database NSS matches individual student characteristics with the eligibility requirements of every known student financial aid program.

This program is available to all students whether they are currently in college, about to enter, or just beginning to apply.
At Brooklyn College, student president Robert Fain praised the group and urged all students to take advantage of this unique service. "Because of the recent crunch on students," Fain said,
"this program is extremely worthwhile. This is the best means of furthering your education for the least amount of money."

Individual students can obtain more information and a Student Financial Aid Dataform by writing to National Student Services, 619 61st Street, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11220.

Is your name Bell?

Families named Bell throughout Massachusetts will join with kinfolk all over the nation to hold a Scottish gathering in Boston later this year to back efforts to win clan status from heraldic officials overseas.

Following the weekend get-together, some group members will go to Scotland for two weeks to visit the places in the Highlands and Borders where their ancestors lived.

The reunion is sponsored by the International Bell Society,
P.O. Box 451, Springfield, Vt.
05156 but with most of its officers in southern states. Representatives from Bay State towns and cities will be named in advance of the two-day session, which will include Scottish movies and live entertainment.

Poem

IN AN ATTIC
An attic is filled with memories
In every corner and nook
Of every make and description
No matter where you look.

You see a trunk that lies so forlornly
With cobwebs all over its lid
That couldn't be bo't at auction
For the very highest bid.

It may be shabby and dirty
And worn at the edges, too,
But its contents are priceless treasures
Tho' only to me and you.

Open it and look in for yourself
Tell me, what do you see?
A broken doll, a teddybear
A dried twig from a Christmas Tree.

A little faded sweater,
How dear it is to you,
And look, there in the pocket
Is a tiny baby's shoe.

And all the little tin soldiers
That stand like sentinels true Aren't broken or even out of place
But appear to be almost new.

You remember when they were put there,
Altho' you were only seven,
T'was when a little baby brother
Had been taken away to Heaven.

And there tied up so carefully
In a pretty light blue box
Is a beautiful golden ringlet Clipped from his curly locks.

You pause for a moment thinking
Of that little one still so dear,
And offer a prayer in silence
As you brush away a tear.

And then you spy a picture
Of a funny looking kiddie
With freckles and pigtails hanging down
Wearing a skirt and middie.

You laugh until you're nearly sick
And feel like a silly fool
As you recall the day so well
That picture was taken in school.

There's a package of letters all tied up
With a worn out ribbon of blue
All scented with violet essence
I bet they hold secrets, too.

And so as you go thru that dear old trunk
That has lain in the attic for years,
You can look back over the bygone days
With mingled laughter - and tears.

REPRESENTATIVE

Sign up for a secure future

At most banks, it's still called "teller". But at BayBanks, we're too progressive to leave it at that. So as a Customer Service Representative, along with handling our customers' daily transactions, you'll have the valuable opportunity to receive paid training. You will learn about our products and services, and have the opportunity to suggest those most appropriate to meet each customer's needs.

But the benefits are something we haven't changed. They're comprehensive and offered to any customer service rep working at least 20 hours per week; paid holidays and vacation, medical insurance, paid personal and sick days, tuition reimbursement, life and accident insurances, a retirement/pension plan, and more.

If you enjoy working with people and figures — and ideally but not necessarily have some cash-handling background — there are full-time and part-time openings available at branch offices throughout the following areas:

Burlington, 229-4532
Lowell, 229-4534
Everett, 387-5100, Ext. 3081
